

Postdoctoral Fellow in Economics

The « Governance and Regulation » Chair has two openings for postdoctoral fellowships in economics.

Candidates must have a solid background in economics (especially in one or several of the following fields: institutional and organizational economics, industrial organization, political economy, public economics, law and economics, health economics, finance).

One of them should have a solid expertise in quantitative methods. The other one should be able to manage comparative institutional analysis. Expertise in the economics of regulation or in health economics is welcome but not required.

About us

The Governance and Regulation Chair is a research program involving the University Paris-Dauphine | PSL— a leading University in Economics and Management in France —, businesses, and regulatory agencies. Its working program covers the political economy and institutional organization of regulation, the strategies of the various stakeholders involved in the regulatory game, the assessment of alternative modes of regulations. The Chair offers an outstanding environment for scholarly publication and high-level communication of research to policy and business audiences.

More information at <http://chairgovreg.fondation-dauphine.fr/>

About the research program on the Governance and Regulation of the Healthcare Provision in France

The two positions are opened in the context of a research program on the regulation of the healthcare provision in France, which covers the funding mechanisms and the performance of the insurance industry. In particular the competition between various operators in the insurance industry, and the interplay between the governance of the healthcare provision and the public systems of social protection will be analyzed in depth to better understand how the intertwined markets of healthcare supply and healthcare insurance could be more efficiently regulated and organized.

About the position

The post-doctoral candidates will be working within the Research team made of researchers in economics, management, law, and political science. They will be expected to contribute to the above described research program. The latter targets the French case but will be partly based on the analysis of other national healthcare systems. This will involve the exploitation of existing databases, and the contribution to the development of innovative ones. Also, the Post-Doc will cooperate in the realization of transnational comparisons of different reforms. The project will benefit from cooperation with stakeholders of the French healthcare system. The postdoctoral fellow will also be involved in the organization of a regular seminar on the functioning and reforms of healthcare systems.

Contract:

In line with French standards, the Post-Doctoral Researcher will be paid 28k€ net/year (subject to adjustments based on experience and family context), which includes social coverage.

18 months fixed-term contract.

This contract might be extended after the first period (up to a total of 3 years maximum).

Starting Month: February 2020.

PROFILE:

- PhD in Economics, with a significant focus on quantitative methods.
- Linguistic skills to evolve in a multilingual environment: fluency in English and in French will be considered as an advantage.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE:

Review of applications will begin December 1st, 2019 and continue until the positions are closed. Application materials must be in PDF format and include a cover letter, CV, transcript of concluded university studies, one letter of reference, and the name, current position and contact for two other potential referees, and, for the post-doc position, one paper authored by the applicant.

All applicants should send their application files and question to the administrator of the Chair: Marie-Helene CAITUCOLI <marie-helene.caitucoli@dauphine.psl.eu>